From: Gregory P. Keeney
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/25/02 8:41pm
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I am a software engineer by trade. I make my living by writing software. Microsoft's practices have resulted in most software development jobs requiring the use of Windows, as well as Microsoft's expensive development tools. While there are many excellent free software development tools available (from the Free Software Foundation and Apple Computer Corporation, and others), these products cannot develop Windows applications.

I strongly believe that any settlement that does not involve Microsoft making their API's (Application Programming Interface) and file specifications publicly available is insufficient.

Thank you.

Gregory P. Keeney